Molotov Puts Paris Parley Into Turmoil Over Voting
Paris, Aug. 8 (AP)—Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov threw the conference of Paris into turmoil today by reopening the once-settled question of voting procedure and declaring the Russian delegation "cannot agree" to rules committee decision on the question.

Molotov renewed charges that Britain and the United States had repudiated decisions agreed to in the Foreign Ministers Council and accused Herbert V. Evatt, Australian minister of external affairs who had led the fight for the small nations in the conference, with "acting to create opinion against Soviet interests."

The Soviet statesman renewed his attack on the press, asserting he had read in Paris papers an interpretation of the rules committee decision which said "the western powers have won the upper hand over the U.S.S.R."

"The Soviet Union believes that it is not the purpose of the Peace Conference that one or another power or bloc of power should win the upper hand over the U.S.S.R. or any other power," he said.

The action of the rules committee, he said, had "nullified" the proposal of the Council of Foreign Ministers and was a "grave mistake."

Molotov declared anyone who expected a recommendation backed by only a simple majority to have any importance would be "greatly disappointed" and emphasized that the decision of the peace conference were not of an "obligatory nature" to the Foreign Ministers Council.

"The attempt to set off the majority of the conference against the minority will do no good" and would "undermine the authority of the conference," he continued.

He demanded that the conference "rectify" the "grave mistake," reject the rules formulated by the committee and accept the foreign ministers' suggestion for two-thirds majority.

Moore Is Selected As Veteran Counselor

Edward J. Neary, director of the New York State Division of Veterans Affairs, today announced the appointment of Donald G. Moore, of Kingston, as a State Veteran Counselor for Ulster county at an annual salary of $3,000.

Mr. Moore was a captain in the Air Forces during the war and prior to entering on military service taught in Kingston schools. He is a graduate of New York University. His home is at 93 St. James street, Kingston.

Father Divine Takes White Bride

Philadelphia, Aug. 8 (AP)—Father Divine, self-styled "god" and Negro evangelist who assumed the mantle of immortality in 1932 as the leader of a religious cult, married a beautiful, blonde 21-year-old white girl from Montreal last April 29 but he tells shrieking followers it's "in name only."

The marriage to Miss Edna Rose Rithings in the Washington home of the Rev. Albert L. Shadd, Negro Baptist minister, was disclosed yesterday.

Divine entertained members of his cult at a wedding banquet here last night and told them his late first wife—Mother Divine—had approved the marriage.

License records show that Divine gave his age as 41, his status as widower, his address as Philadelphia. He told his followers his first wife and he were married "on June 6, 1882."

Divine insisted that he placed the spirit of his first wife—described as "an Aunt Jeannine-like woman"—in the person of his second wife and then shouted that the new marriage, like the old one, was "in name only."

"God is not married," he sermonized.

"It's beautiful," "Thank you, Father," "It's true," screamed his followers, chanting and singing and clapping their hands.

Divine, whose various properties are known as "heavens" and whose followers take such names as "Practical Son," "Tree of Life," "New Charity," etc., said he was "battered" over the death of his first wife.

"When Mother Divine seemingly passed away three or four years ago, her spirit was about me all the time," he said, "and I felt her presence."

Divine said she left Montreal last night.

Mr. Divine sat unmoved at the wedding banquet occasionally murmuring about the word "peace."

Heirens Will Get Psychiatric Tests; Arraigned Today

Chicago, Aug. 8 (AP)—A psychiatric examination of William Heirens was ordered by the criminal court today when the confessed killer of two women and a little girl was arraigned on the third murder charge against him.

Third Murder Charge Is Read in Court in Chicago to 17-Year Defendant

The 17-year-old defendant entered no plea to the Ross charge. At a previous court appearance he offered no plea to charges of murdering Suzanne Degnan, 6, and Miss Frances Brown, 33, a former Wave. He has signed statements detailing how he slew all three.

Chief Justice Harold G. Ward of the criminal court appointed Dr. William Haines of the Cook county (Chicago) behavior clinic and Dr. Harry Hoffman, court psychiatrist, to examine the young possessor of the dual personality who said he burglarized to obtain sexual gratification.

Heirens' lawyers declined to say what action they would take, but it has been reported that if and when guilty pleas are entered State's Attorney William J. Tuohy is expected to recommend consecutive sentences of life imprisonment, thus placing the youth beyond the reach of possible parole. He would not become eligible for parole for 60 years, after serving 20 years on each murder charge.

However, it was considered almost certain that Heirens would be examined by alienists before he enters any pleas.

Sheriff Michael Mulcahy yesterday disclosed that a razor blade was found concealed in one of four books brought to the county jail.

Peace Conference Attracts Lobbyists, Special Pleaders

Paris, Aug. 8 (AP)—The peace conference begins to look more normal, with the appearance of a battalion of lobbyists, special pleaders and back-door agents, who lurk in the corridors at the palace of Luxembourg or come right into the pressroom. They are as typical of peace conferences as pine-nez spectacles and port-folios.

They all have something to sell. What they have in common is the hope of talking the newspapermen into carrying the ball for their cause.

For example, a blonde and beautiful lady from the Balkans was around to see us the other day. Her eyes were very blue, the lashes were long and black. She needed help, she said.

When you signified that you would be honored to be of any assistance, she replied, "all we ask

Senate Has Names of Those Who 'Looted' Secret Files

Washington, Aug. 8 (AP)—A daring attempt to forestall the Garson munitions combine expose was disclosed officially today with a Senate war investigating committee announcement that it has the names of the "individuals" involved.

Arabs Turn Down Holy Land Talks, Cunningham Says

Jerusalem, Aug. 8 (AP)—Lt. Gen. Sir Alan Cunningham, British high commissioner, said today that Palestine Arab leaders had turned down an invitation to roundtable talks in London on the future of the Holy Land.

Arabs Also Question Reported Plans to Halt Jewish Immigration

Cunningham's statement said the Arabs also had raised the questions of reported government plans to halt unauthorized Jewish immigration into Palestine and of the release of Arab political prisoners. The statement gave no details on these questions.

(London dispatches said a dramatic government statement on Palestine might be forthcoming within 48 hours. British government sources said yesterday the cabinet was considering far-reaching military plans which might include a tight blockade of the Palestine coast to halt the flow of unauthorized Jewish immigrants and stricter control of displaced persons camps and frontiers in Austria, Germany and Italy to stem the underground pipeline feeding the immigrants into Italian ports.)

The high commissioner's statement was issued after a 40-minute conference with Jamal Bey Husseini, acting chairman of the Arab Executive, who returned from Egypt last night after conferences with Arab League leaders.

The Arab rejection of the invitation to the London conference, said the Arab Executive could not agree to take part in any discussion based on the partition of Palestine.

The possibility of Russia being projected into the situation was seen today in a statement of the Arab Office that there was no reason why "America should be a party to the Palestine case and not Russia."

Warren Will Help

A promise by Comptroller General Lindsay Warren to lend the committee two of his "ablest" auditors to go behind the figures in complicated war contracts. The committee got two other book-keeping detectives from the Bureau of Internal Revenue a day earlier.

An offer by Warren to supply "examples" of weaknesses in government procurement uncovered in its audits of war contracts. Warren said these would include examples of official favoritism toward particular contractors and attempts by government officials to collect unwarranted "allowances."

A statement by Senator Taylor (D-Iowa) that there should be a general investigation of war profits by "corporate giants" with the claim that it would "lead to the steel, rail, motor and power monopolies and to the National Association of Manufacturers and the U. S. Chamber of Commerce."

This came after shipbuilder Henry J. Kaiser said he was "eager" for inquiry into his wartime operations.

Exact Date Not Given

The exact date of the early-morning hold search of the committee's files was not furnished to the committee by its informant, but Counsel George Meader placed it as about last fall—at the time when still other documents completely disappeared.

This occurred during the committee's preliminary inquiry, long before key witnesses were called into closed door sessions to piece together the story of how the combine's promoters pyramided a government war order to a non-existent corporation into a complex corporate structure which obtained more than $78,000,000 in war contracts.

German Mothers Complain About Missing Children

Berlin, Aug. 8 (AP)—A delegation of German mothers from the Russian-occupied province of Brandenburg has appealed to the International Red Cross here for aid in finding thousands of children they said had disappeared from the province in recent months.

The parents maintain, according to the British licensed newspaper Telegraph and American Licensed Tagesspiegel, that the children have been taken to Russian camps where they are being schooled in a "new Weltanschauung" (philosophy of life).

Shintoism Discovered

Tokyo, Aug. 8 (AP)—Widespread violations in Japan of General MacArthur's directive abolishing Shintoism were disclosed officially today. W. K. Bunce, of the religious division in Headquarters Civil Information and Education section, said that conversations on a "higher level" are in progress between headquarters and the Japanese government to halt such violations.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, Aug. 8 (AP)—The position of the treasury August 6: Receipts $214,608,920.05; Expenditures $213,032,804.72. Balance $10,925,533.30. Customs receipts for month $7,266,655.80. Receipts fiscal years July 1 $2,960,113,221.25. Expenditures fiscal year $4,175,207,255.36. Excess of expenditures $1,215,094,044.11. Total debt $267,479,069,430.44. ### Mother Escapes From 'Grave'

Janie Venable Gantt, 19-year-old mother of a three-year-old son, kneels inside a crude grave in Atlanta, Ga., which she told police was dug for her. She testified to Judge J. Wilson Parker in Fulton Civil Court that her estranged husband, William Lee Gantt, Jr., forced her into the grave at knife point. She escaped when he left her alone in the hole thinking she could not climb out, she said. (AP Wirephoto)

Henry C. Connelly Dies at 76; Was Draft Board Chairman

Henry C. Connelly, retired pharmacist, who owned and operated the Connelly Drug Company in the downtown section of the city for 40 years, retiring in 1939 and who during World War 2 acted as chairman of the Kingston Selective Service Board, died this morning at the Kingston Hospital. He was 76 years.

Mr. Connelly, while not in the very best of health for a number of years, worked long hours with the other members of the draft board and his constant attention to the vast responsibilities thrust upon him won for him the affection and admiration of his colleagues. He put aside personal matters to be of service to his fellow men. The affection in which he was held extended throughout a wide circle.

Born in Port Ewen in 1870, he obtained his education in the public schools and Kingston Academy. He then entered the employ of the Ulster and Delaware Railroad Company as clerk to the passenger agent, where he remained for 10 years. In 1898 he established the Connelly Drug Company, when he opened a drug store in the former Dippold Building on Broadway near Mill street, where he remained in business for about a year. He then removed his business to the store in the Masonic building, Broadway and Strand, where he remained for 26 years.

The drug business was then removed to the former Mansion House building on the opposite side of Broadway, where the business was carried on for 16 years. In 1939 he disposed of the business.

Defeat of Slaughter Is Seen As Feather in Truman Cap

Washington, Aug. 8 (AP)—Key rules body "no longer will control it."

The committee has 12 members, only four of them Republicans. But of the eight Democrats only two are administration stalwarts—Sabath and Rep. James J. Delaney (N.Y.). Because a tie vote blocks action on any measure under consideration, Slaughter and his five Dixie colleagues have been able to make their view prevail.

Pleading to speed legislative proposals whose prospects they say have been brightened by Slaughter's defeat, both Sabath and Michener cited measures to boost the minimum wage from 40 to 65 cents an hour and to create a permanent fair employment practice commission.

While the Senate also has a rules committee, that group confines its activities to decisions on procedure, rather than determining what legislation should be cleared to the full chamber for a vote.

Pay Measure Awaits His Signature

Bill Carries Outlay of $30,000,000 for Cars for Amputee Veterans

O.P.A. Gets Cash

Twenty-Six Millions Are Allocated to O.P.A. by Measure

Washington, Aug. 8 (AP)—President Truman today signed into law an appropriation bill carrying $2,431,780,000 for enlisted men's terminal leave pay.

The President has not yet signed the terminal leave pay legislation itself. This is on his desk for action.

The bill signed today also carries $30,000,000 for the purchase of specially-fitted automobiles for veterans who have lost their legs. It also provides $26,000,000 for O.P.A., in addition to $75,000,000 appropriated earlier.

The terminal pay bill awaiting action would make an estimated 15,000,000 past and present enlisted men eligible to be paid for full-time time they didn't receive.

As it went to Mr. Truman, the legislation contained the "bottled-in-bottle" provision which O.P.A. members have announced they will try to knock out early next year.

Estimated to cost as much as $2,700,000,000, most of which has been appropriated, the law requires payment to enlisted personnel who have served at any time since September 8, 1939, for accrued furlough time up to 120 days. The time accrues at the rate of two and one-half days for each month of service, minus any furlough time actually received.

Payments will be at the rate of base and longevity pay received at time of discharge, plus a minimum of 70 cents a day for subsistence.

Payments will be in cash if they are less than $50, or if the recipient was discharged prior to January 1, 1943. Cash payments will be made also to estates of discharged men who have died.

All other payments will be in bonds cashable five years after the date of discharge of the individual receiving them.

Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said the President will sign the terminal leave pay bill itself at a special White House ceremony, possibly tomorrow. This is the measure which authorizes the government to make the payments.

Recent Bride Tells Of Being Branded

San Antonio, Aug. 8 (AP)—Police today had the report of an attractive, 21-year-old recent bride of a Fort Sam Houston soldier that she had been beaten, choked, attacked, robbed and burned on the street with a cigarette by a stranger with whom she made a midnight date.

The police had this account: Following an argument after the couple had gone for a drive, the man, who when asked his name said "just call me Charles," beat her, tore her clothing and attacked her, then threatened to kill her and throw her body in a creek.

The man took a lighted cigarette and burned her five times on the breast; beat her again and finally choked her into unconsciousness. After regaining consciousness she sought help from a passing taxicab and was taken to police headquarters.

A.F.L. Says It Will Mobilize Its Strength

Washington, Aug. 8 (AP)—The A.F.L. said today it is determined to mobilize the full strength of its 7,000,000 members this fall "to elect a lawmaking body more responsive to the people's needs."

While asserting that its stepped-up political drive does not contemplate a "political action" committee as such, the Federation News Service added:

"Following its traditional non-partisan political course, the Federation is expected to concentrate its efforts on getting out the labor vote in favor of candidates who have been endorsed on the basis of their voting records."

A.F.L.'s role in the congressional campaigns will be planned in detail at an executive council meeting at Chicago beginning next Monday.

Germany and Japan In Church Council

Cambridge, England, Aug. 8 (AP)—Germany and Japan both are represented on the World Council of Churches' International Affairs Commission.

The full list of commission members was announced today following conclusion of the council's four-day session.

Baron Frederick Asbeck, Leyden University professor, was asked to acceptance had not been received.

John Foster Dulles, New York church leader, accepted appointment as vice chairman of the commission. Other United States members listed were:

Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam, president of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ; Prof. Reinhold Niebuhr, Union Theological Seminary, New York; Bishop Ashton Oldham, Albany, N. Y.; and Dean Virginia Gildersleeve, New York.

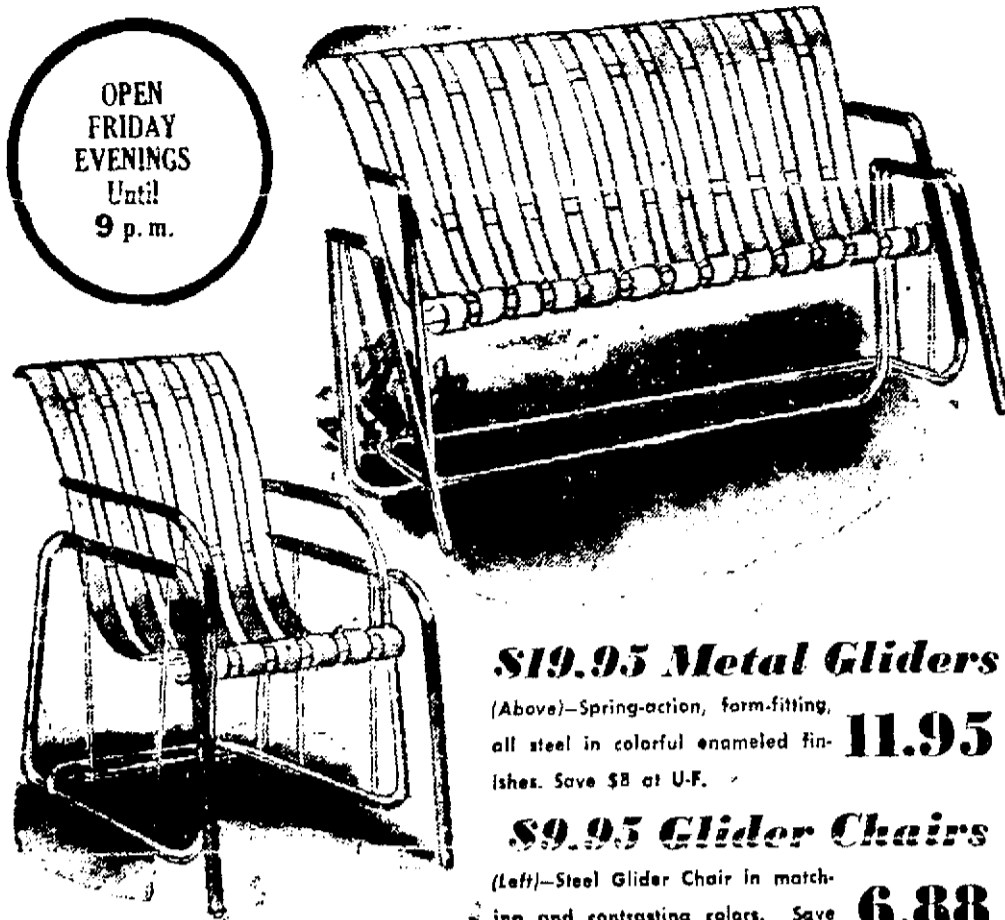

Says Shares Worthless—New York, Aug. 8 (AP)—The Public Service Commission yesterday adopted an opinion by Chairman Milo R. Maltbie holding that the 3,000,000 shares of common stock of the Long Island Lighting Company, with a stated value of $3,000,000 "are entirely worthless."

Billion for Baubles

Washington, Aug. 7 (UP)—Americans shelled out $1,200,000,000 for jewelry and baubles last year. Coming up with this estimate today, the Bureau of Mines said it was a record sum and topped the 1944 total by 12 per cent. Emphasizing that in the past decade "wealth has shifted from the '400' to the medium and lower income brackets," the pamphlet added: "The carriage trade is almost extinct, and hereafter the retailers will sell fewer expensive items and more medium and low-priced goods."

Gives Cabbage Away

Reported that Autumn Van Den Heuvel, Rockland county farmer, disposed of less than half of a load of cabbage he had hauled to market, at two cents a pound. When buyers refused to take more he carted some 3,000 cabbages back to his farm and spread word for neighbors to "come and take it." Also, he said, waving his hand toward six acres of cabbage, "There as wants it can have it for free."

Leaves From Boyle's Notebook

By HAL BOYLE

Bamberg, Germany, Aug. 8 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Ernie Harmon, America's No. 1 policeman overseas, is an unorthodox fighting man.

Ordinary tank commanders still shudder at his dictum that the armor, not the infantry, should spearhead assaults against enemy fortified lines.

Yet Harmon proved his point in the Anzio Beachhead breakout when he slashed 5,000 yards through four German defense lines.

"It cost me 116 tanks that day," he recalled, "but we lost only ten doughboys killed and less than 100 wounded. It was worth the tanks to save hundreds of infantry lives, and within a week I had 70 of the tanks back in action again."

"It's easier to repair a tank than it is to bring half a hundred doughboys back to life."

Sees Tanks Passing Out
Harmon foresees a lessening importance for tank warfare in any future war.

"I saw the cavalry go out after the First World War," he said, "and I think the last war was the only one in which tanks will have played such a major role."

"Old gravel voice," like many a loyal old army horseman from Fort Riley, still wears his cavalry boots, but he is too hard-headed ever to want to fight a war with outmoded weapons.

His favorite vehicle now is a railroad train loaned him by Gen. McNarney to shuttle about the American zone for inspection of his troopers of the new American constabulary.

"I like my own train better," he said, "but I wore the rims off the wheels and had to borrow one from the boss till mine gets fixed."

Harmon labors in Trojan fashion to spread his own bulldog personality down through the ranks. He wants his constabulary troopers to be tough, courteous and vigilant.

I watched him in four inspections as he passed down the lines, chatting with every other man, bawling out a sloppy dressed soldier, praising another for his erect posture. Troopers' knees shook as the general approached.

Likes Combat Men

About 70 per cent of the constabulary are enlisted men in the regular army, and Ernie is as sentimental as a schoolgirl about the old combat men. He always has a soldier-to-soldier word with them.

He came to one man wearing a faded 36th Division patch on his shoulder.

"Were you at the Rapido River in Italy?" he asked.

"Yes sir," said the soldier, and his eyes held the memory of dead buddies.

"Tough show—that one," said Harmon.

"Yes sir," said the soldier, and tears began rolling down his cheeks. The flesh wounds knit after battle; the heart wounds never do.

Ernie patted him silently on the back and turned away to keep from crying himself. Combat generals do cry, you know. Then Harmon caught sight of a soldier in baggy trousers, and submerged his feelings in a bellow:

"Did you sleep in those pants, soldier?"

Farther on he halted before a rookie whose stolid face bore the indecipherable look of previous military service.

"Where'd you soldier before?" asked the general.

"In the navy, sir."

"What are you doing here?"

"Beats the hell out of me, sir," said the rookie.

"You'll do all right, soldier," said Ernie, walking on with a chuckle. He likes a ready man.

Named by Englishman

"Lord" Darrel Duppa, English adventurer, gave Phoenix, Ariz., its name many years ago when, noting the prehistoric Indian ruins near the then infant settlement, he remarked, "A city will rise Phoenix-like from these ashes of the past."

New Home Values Up 72 Per Cent in 310 U. S. Cities

Minneapolis, Aug. 8—Values of new homes built in 310 U. S. cities in 1945 totaled $374,702,407, a gain of $157,446,764 or 72.5 per cent over the preceding year, said Earl E. Crabb, chairman of the board of Investors Syndicate here today.

Thirty-five of 42 regions showed higher home values than in 1944, but four of such gains, California, Delaware, Georgia, and Missouri, reflected higher unit costs rather than increased volume of residential building.

While volume of home building in these same 310 cities gained only 25.8 per cent over 1944 the valuations jumped 72.5 per cent.

Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, and District of Columbia (Washington), continued Mr. Crabb, in reporting preliminary results of the company's eleventh annual national housing survey, showed increased valuations in home building in 1945 over 1944. Other states registering valuation gains were: Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kentucky, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia, Washington, West Virginia, and Wisconsin.

"Louisiana, Maryland, Montana, Nebraska, and Utah, reported lower valuations in 1945 than in 1944 while Kansas and Maine were virtually unchanged from a year earlier.

Rising Labor, Materials
"Rising costs, especially in wages, and consequently in most materials, along with advancing taxes, priorities, and production controls, contributed to higher building permit valuations at a time when the volume of construction, as recorded in number of people provided with new homes, was expanding at a slower rate than values."

Valuations of new homes put up in the 310 cities during 1945 totaled $374,702,407, a gain of $157,446,764 or 72.5 per cent over the 1944 total of $217,255,642. Last year's new home values were $215,133,433 or 36.5 per cent less than the 1930 aggregate of $589,855,840. The latter year nationally is regarded as a "normal" level.

Although wartime housing needs, resulting from wide-spread population changes, speeded home building in many war centers during 1942 and 1943, elsewhere wartime bans and controls cut value and volume of new homes. Volume in 1941 hit an 8 year low and values a ten year low, followed by recoveries in 1945.

Valuations of new homes in the average war year (1942-43 and 1944) were $333,004,000, a decrease of $196,101,000 or 35.4 per cent from the average pre-war year (1939, 1940 and 1941) of $849,505,000 when residential construction was emerging from the depression period.

"Federal construction in 310 cities during 1945," explained Mr. Crabb, "had a valuation of $19,092,755, a decline of $15,443,445 or 44.7 per cent from the 1944 total of $34,536,200. Valuations of federally built homes formed 5 per cent of the total new homes erected in 1945 against 16 per cent in 1944, 37 per cent in 1943 and 27 per cent of the 1932 total."

"We need a lot of new central office equipment before we can give our customers individual line residence telephone service"

UNTIL huge quantities of new equipment—switchboards, wire and cables—are manufactured and installed, we must use all the facilities we now have on a sharing basis. In that way we can serve the greatest possible number of families still on our waiting lists. That's why in most communities, party-line service is the only type available.

For the same reason, it is not possible to give an individual line to those who now share a party line.

Naturally, we want to give everyone, everywhere the type of service desired. And we're working full speed to overcome the shortages caused by war in order to do so. However, it will take considerable time; new orders keep coming almost as fast as we can clear up those on the waiting list—sometimes even faster.

Meanwhile, please try to do your calling outside the busy morning and early evening hours; and be considerate in your telephone conversations so that others on your line can also make calls.

THOSE AMERICAN COUSINS

"In spite of our delight in seeing our American cousins among us," says the Toronto Telegram, "and the incidental financial advantages we derive from their sojourn in Canada, we are beginning to feel like the small householder when the country relatives turn up, when mother has to sleep on the chesterfield and dad in the bath tub."

"Another thing which some find it difficult to figure out is the justice of taxing Canadians to produce subsidies for commodities which are sold to visitors who do not pay taxes. They sometimes wonder whether Mr. Hsley, who has made such a success of taxing Canadians, could not devise a painless method of extracting taxes from the visitors."

With the first difficulty, a good deal of sympathy is possible. Canadians, like Americans, had no gasoline nor tires for any happy uses during the war. Now they have both and they, like their American cousins, are hungry for fishing and touring and fun. But the cousins are pouring over the borders in such numbers that many resorts are booked up over Labor Day.

As to the taxes—the Americans pay them all right, but at second hand for bed and board, boats and services, instead of directly to the Canadian treasury. The American really cannot feel too bad about the Canadians' taxes. They're getting plenty from the visitors to pay them with.

MORE AND BETTER FOOD

Food discussions of late have so uniformly been devoted to the hungry overseas, that it is with a certain amount of pleasure that the reader turns to the statement that the food of Americans, over the past 37 years, has become better and more varied. The Bureau of Human Nutrition and Home Economics has been making a study of the per capita food supply for the period from 1909 to 1945, with extremely interesting results.

There have been great gains in the intake of vitamins, largely due to increased consumption of milk and eggs, of fruits, meat, poultry and vegetables. Enrichment of white bread and flour have also helped. More riboflavin and calcium have been taken because of greater use of milk. In 1909 the annual per capita consumption of milk was 169 quarts. By 1944 this had risen to 257 quarts. This is much less than a quart of milk per person per day, but it is going up.

Citrus fruit and tomatoes rose from 44 pounds per person per year in 1909 to 119 pounds in 1945. Leafy green and yellow vegetables almost doubled in consumption. The use of grain and potatoes dropped as the other foods went up.

It is to be remembered that these figures are merely averages, taken over the nation as a whole. The distribution is far from even. Some people have had all they needed, many people still have far too little. But the nation as a whole is eating better than it used to do.

LOWLANDS HARMONY

The best European news for some time is that the Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg have agreed on a customs union. By the end of 1947 it is expected that there will be no more tariff barriers between the three states.

This is the first step toward a unification of Europe which many believe to be a vital step toward a world government. While the Dutch and Belgians are next-door neighbors, like other next-door neighbors, they have not always been on good terms with each other. When the Dutch won their independence from Spain in 1579, the Belgian provinces chose to remain behind. Napoleon forcibly reunited them under French rule, and the settlement after his fall kept them together for 15 years. In 1830 the Belgians revolted, and they have gone their own way ever since. If they have tended towards union with any other country, it has been France.

World War II taught the Lowlanders, if they did not know it before, that small countries need a broader base if they are to survive. The proposed customs union may be a forerunner of a closer association.

CONGRESS AT WORK

The recent session of Congress was a brilliant example of democracy at work. Few Congresses have been as bitterly attacked and ridiculed by the totalitarians among us who, no longer believing in representative government, seek to turn over to a frightened Executive the full powers of government. Those who do not study closely political and social trends and whose minds have been poisoned alike by Nazi and anti-Nazi propaganda fail to recognize that the totalitarian concept of government and life has taken hold of the minds and imaginations of a large segment of the intellectuals of this world.

They believe, and their experience in recent years justifies the belief, that the President is more susceptible to such pressure groups as P. A. C. and the C. I. O. than a diffuse and close-to-the-people Congress. They insist that efficient government requires concentrated executive power. Their ridicule of individual members of Congress is designed to soften the people's resistance to the substitution of totalitarianism for representative government.

This Congress, on the side of international relations, has, to all intents and purposes, given the President almost complete authority. What remains, of course, is the constitutional limitation of ratification of treaties by the Senate. But most of our relations with foreign countries are by agreements and by day-by-day deals, transactions and commitments which are put into effect so rapidly that the course of events makes any effective change impossible and requires no implementation by ratified treaties.

Actually passed by Congress were the Bretton Woods Agreements, the British Loan, U. N. R. R. A. and its appropriations, U. N. Export-Import Bank extensions, Reciprocal Trade continuing agreements, the Mexican Treaty and the World Court.

On the domestic side, the fight was between the totalitarians and those who insisted upon a restoration of economic freedom for the people and representative government in accordance with the Constitution. Mr. Truman speaks in favor of a retreat from totalitarianism of the New Deal but acts in strict harmony with those who favor extension of controls and increased power of the Executive. The totalitarians stand today where they stood in 1933, in support of a governmental system in which a controlled economy is absolutely operated by an all-powerful executive. In their theory Congress should exist to register the will of the Executive.

In the last Congress, they not only made no progress but they had to retreat. The President's so-called Full Employment Bill, which was as totalitarian in theory and structure as anything produced on the Continent of Europe, was changed and modified to an innocuous measure. U. S. E. S. was returned to the States. F. E. P. C. was defeated. The Hospital Bill, Mental Research, Aid to Education, Health Bills and Housing Bills were originally written as straight totalitarian measures, setting up agencies for the control and mastery of the economic and social life of the people. Those that passed were rewritten to fit the American system. The Selective Service Bill was rewritten and modified.

The Case Bill was the first rationalization of labor legislation with a view to refitting labor problems into the American system from which they have escaped via the Wagner Act. The bill was voted by the President, who is thus responsible for the current recession of production in important areas. His own Labor Bill was never a substitute for the Case Bill.

O. P. A. was sufficiently changed in the two bills passed to reject the concept that a single individual could arbitrarily and practically by whim control the production and distribution of goods and the economic life of the people through the manipulation of the price structure. Congress was aided in its resistance to absolutism by the excesses of Chester Bowles, but the real resistance to the O. P. A. was among the American people.

In addition, Congress passed measures for Veteran Housing, Veterans Leave Payments, Increased Pensions, and Increased Pay. It defeated the Selective Research Bill which would have placed one political appointee in control of all research, all inventions, all initiative and all higher learning in the United States. This was the most astonishingly complete totalitarian measure yet proposed in the United States.

The record of this Congress has been excellent, from the standpoint of accomplishment and independence. (Copyright, 1946, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M.D.

EMOTIONS OF THE BODY

One of the advantages of the final year in the study of medicine and of interne duty in hospital is that the student gets the opportunity of learning about and seeing all branches—medicine, surgery, obstetrics, X-rays and others. However that this is not enough general or all round experience before a graduate studies a specialty is the opinion of the great majority of physicians today. That this same opinion was held nearly 2500 years ago is pointed out by Dr. C. H. Cahn in the University of Toronto Medical Journal. Quoting Plato we read: "This is the great error of our day in the treatment of the human body, that physicians separate the soul from the body. You ought not to attempt to cure the eyes without the head or the head without the body, so neither ought you to attempt to cure the body without the soul; and this is the reason why the cure of many diseases is unknown to the physicians of Greece because they are ignorant of the whole which ought to be studied also; for the part can never be well unless the whole is well." Today we call this study of the effect of the mind and emotions upon the body, psychosomatic medicine—psychosomatic machine—psycho for mind and soma for body.

What does the practice of psychosomatic medicine mean or include? It simply means that the patient is studied as an individual—his mind, emotions and body. If we want to arrive at a true picture of a patient's condition we have to consider his heredity, environment, or business and home surroundings, growth, development, health and disease, individual personality, and the place of the individual in the community. These factors are all related to one another and this must be recognized to get the "true picture."

Just because one part of the body is ailing or diseased should not mean that a specialist for that part is the one and only physician to be consulted. What are the advantages of investigating and treating patients from the standpoint of psychosomatic medicine?

Psychosomatic methods can be used in patients with certain chronic conditions. A 5 per cent of women, according to a series of admissions to a general hospital, were found to have emotional difficulties that had to do with the origin or course of their symptoms.

Neurosis

Neurosis—believing you have a physical ailment when in fact you have a mental one—is usually caused by a conflict between the conscious and subconscious mind. To obtain it, you must have a conflict and a strong emotional state of mind, and a strong emotional state, to cover up your feelings and maintain the status quo. ### Facts for Vets

Jerry B. was discharged for a nervous disability in January 1945. Three weeks later, a letter from the Veterans Administration advised him that he was to receive a monthly pension of $11.50. He received his pension regularly until July 1945 when the Veterans Administration called him in for an examination. Upon his conclusion, Jerry was told that his pension would be discontinued. Although Jerry has been able to work continuously since his discharge and during the time he was drawing his pension, he claims he still is entitled to the monthly check because he is nervous and, as he puts it, "jumpy."

To understand the procedure that led to the discontinuance of Jerry's pension, the workings of the Veterans Administration rating board must be briefly explained. Claims of veterans for benefits are handled by a Veterans Administration rating board which is on duty at the regional office of the Veterans Administration. This board is composed of three members: a doctor, a lawyer, and an occupational specialist. They are called "rating specialists." Together and individually, they consider the factual issues of claims like Jerry's. When they arrive at a conclusion in regard to the merits or demerits of a case, they must be guided by appropriate rating schedules. These rating schedules specify the percentage of a veteran's disability in relation to the disabilities the examination reveals.

In Jerry's case it seems clear that the first rating, the one that entitled him to a pension, was based upon medical facts secured from military service records. The second rating, which cut off his pension, was the result of the examination given him by the Veterans Administration.

TODAY'S GARDEN-GRAPH

Act Now for Forsythia Blooms Next Spring

IF YOU want to enjoy an inspiring display of yellow blooms early next April, plant Forsythia shrubs this fall. If you already have a planting of the shrubs, you may be interested in adding a new pale yellow variety which is the loveliest of all the Forsythias to date. It is called Spring Glory, and its branches at blooming time are completely covered with brilliant "golden bells."

Although Forsythia can be planted in either spring or fall, the best time is in the fall. You will not interfere with bud development and it is not necessary to prune back the bush as in spring planting.

Forsythia can be propagated by laying or "rooting" the tips of the accompanying Garden-Graph. The pendulous varieties take root by themselves wherever the slender branches bend to the ground. The upright forms can be propagated by pegging down a long branch. Notching the buried portion of the branch speeds the formation of roots. After the branch is well-rooted, it can be severed from the parent bush and set out as a new plant.

Forsythias also grow easily from cuttings. Greenwood cuttings can be taken in mid-June, and hardwood cuttings in autumn, as illustrated. These late cuttings are called half-ripened stem cuttings and should be made from this season's growth. The cuttings should be from 6 to 10 inches long. Make a clean, slightly diagonal cut just above a bud at the top and just below a bud at the bottom. Bury the cuttings in a deep box of moist sand, soil or sawdust. Keep in a cool, dark place over winter.

When spring comes plant the cuttings in a "nursery row" leaving only the top bud above ground. The cuttings should be well-rooted by fall and can then be moved to give them more growing space.

I. B. M. Plans to Triple Plant in Poughkeepsie

The International Business Machines Corporation has in prospect plans for extensive expansion of its Poughkeepsie enterprise, it is learned by the Poughkeepsie News Yorker.

The construction of a huge new building, triple the size of the present main manufacturing building of Plant 4 on the South Road. An application for permission to construct the new building is now before the C. P. A. in Washington. The building would be 1,000 by 175 feet, two stories and would add 350,000 square feet of floor space to the approximately 100,000 of the present main works.

I. B. M. has set an objective, it is said, for employment of 5,000 persons in the Poughkeepsie plants, as against a present complement of approximately 1,700.

Health for All

High Blood Pressure

To the fast pace at which many Americans speed through life can be attributed their tendency to high blood pressure. Trying to crowd numerous activities in one day, straining their physical strength to the limit, carrying their business to bed with them where they continue to worry over the problems of the day instead of resting, men and women in this age of rush run their blood pressure up—and then add it to their list of worries.

High blood pressure indicates that the heart and arteries are under abnormal tension. It is not a disease in itself but should be taken as a warning and its cause investigated. The danger of high blood pressure is that the heart will be injured if the cause of the rise in blood pressure is not discovered in time and any possible steps taken to correct the condition.

There are various things which may be the cause of high blood pressure. Therefore, there is no one remedy which can be prescribed for the condition. The only safe thing to do is to consult a doctor and follow his advice. Everyone who has had a physical examination is familiar with the apparatus which the physician brings out to take the blood pressure—with the band he wraps firmly around the arm and the gauge he uses to measure tension produced by the blood current on the walls of the blood vessels. Taking the blood pressure is part of any complete physical examination.

If the blood pressure is normal, it is a healthy sign. If it is low, it indicates low vitality but not necessarily that anything is seriously wrong. It has been said that no one ever died from low blood pressure, but that the person with low blood pressure misses a lot of fun in life. He has little energy and pep and tires easily. The physician may suggest exercise to improve the circulation of the blood.

High blood pressure may indicate any one of a number of things. It may be caused by a disease of the kidney. Very often high blood pressure is due solely to the high-tension life which many modern Americans live. The strain and excitement of their lives place an extra strain on the heart, causing the blood pressure to rise. When the blood pressure is high, a doctor should be consulted and his advice followed. "Suntan or Sunburn?" will be discussed in the next article.

C. I. O. Is Criticized for Contradictions for Complaining Against O. P. A., Failing to Cite Strikes

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Aug. 8.—The C. I. O. takes a different view from the A. F. L. on current economic conditions. While the A. F. L. urges more and more production and insists that the wage earner can get more by negotiation than by strikes, the C. I. O. puts its emphasis on the need for a consumer resistance movement and is not so sure about the value of strikes as it was a few months ago.

The C. I. O.'s philosophy, as expressed in its monthly bulletin, is somewhat contradictory in that it complains against the O. P. A., on the one hand, for raising prices and yet fails to note that a substantial part of the price increases are due to the C. I. O.'s own campaign of strikes last autumn and winter. The C. I. O. economic bulletin says:

"The O. P. A. solution for the wage-price problem . . . reestablishes for the postwar economy the same high-profit, low-output pattern of operation that characterized American big business before the war. High unit profits permit industry to earn good returns on capital even though output is low. This policy requires that prices be high with respect to wages, and insures that 'very wage increase workers win will promptly be capped with higher prices on the products they make. Here is the root cause of continuous underemployment and recurrent periods of unemployment."

The fallacy in the foregoing is that, if high unit profits are visible, competition becomes extensive, and small business has a chance to operate. Whether to increase production is not within the control of the major producers if the profit is attractive enough for smaller competitors to enter the market. That is precisely what is behind the new profit formula of O. P. A.—an effort to furnish incentives for increased production.

If, to be sure, wage increases are not covered in the prices the producer can charge, who is to pay for them? Maybe the top few producers can absorb the top few increases but this ignores the high-cost marginal producers, who, under the American system of competition, are entitled to a chance to produce. No anti-trust law apparently can stop the big unions of today from aiding the abetting big business. The C. I. O. appears from some aspects to be the best ally big business ever had and its price policy and consumer movement philosophy, if carried out, would be the worst blow ever struck at the present inflation.

The answer to the present dilemma is more production at lower and lower cost. This means an increase in efficiency and output. The American economic system cannot survive a vicious circle in which wage increases are forced by the strike weapon and the consumer resistance is stimulated to break up the producer's market so that many employers are forced out of business and their employees uprooted at the same time. The present trend is toward bigger and bigger unionism and bigger and bigger business corporations. In the end public opinion will demand that both be rigidly controlled, and that the beginning of totalitarianism. (Reproduction Rights Reserved.)

A year ago June 26, delegates to the San Francisco conference completed drafting the United Nations Charter, thus laying the foundation for the world organization. Austria has marked the first anniversary of the charter by surcharging a 30-groschen and H. Stolor dark red stamp issued in 1945. The surcharge consists of a wreath-shaped globe and, on the vertical sides, the dates "26 June 1945" and "26 June 1946." A surtax of 20 groschen has been added across the bottom. The stamp pictures the Wolfgang See, near Salzburg.

Late in 1945 Brazil prepared a 40-centavo stamp to mark the opening of an international bridge connecting Brazil and Argentina. But before the scheduled date of issue, Nov. 13, Brazil's President Getulio Vargas was ousted from office. Since his portrait appeared on the stamp, the issue was suppressed and presumably destroyed. A few copies are known to have been used in rural areas before the issue was withdrawn.

Now, however, unused copies of the stamp have arrived in this country. Dr. Mario de Sanctis of Sao Paulo reports to Stamps magazine that the stamp is for philatelists only because it cannot be used for postage. The dull lavender stamp also pictures Gen. Don Augustin P. Justo, president of Argentina from 1932 to 1938.

Meanwhile, the third and final section of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt stamp issue has been brought $12,040 at auction. The stamp was realized from the sale of his stamps is $228,000. Since the bulk of the third section consisted of stamps of "mixture" quality, it is obvious that sentiment rather than true value influenced the bidders. —George A. Scott

American Farmer Reaches Falmouth; Newsmen Banned

Falmouth, Eng., Aug. 8 (AP)—The collision-battered U. S. Merchant ship American Farmer, escorted by her sister ship, the American Ranger, reached Falmouth today under her own power, safe from the perils of the sea but still the center of a stormy salvage controversy.

American merchant ship William J. Riddle several hundred miles off the English coast last week. The Ranger put a skeleton crew aboard the Farmer after she had been abandoned by her own crew on the high seas and taken in tow by the 2,000-ton British steamer Elizabeth, which is now claiming salvage rights.

The Elizabeth put into Barry, Wales, 125 miles north of Falmouth, about three hours after the American Farmer arrived here. Newsmen were permitted to board her and a member of the Elizabeth's crew said that the Ranger's crew was "very decent about it" when they took over the Farmer.

Scamers from the Ranger hung over the rail of the Farmer as this correspondent cycled her in a harbor tug. To a shouted query as to whether they had any trouble when they took over the ship from the Elizabeth the American seamen shouted back:

"None at all."

"We're going to claim this ship," they added, when asked whether the American Ranger would contest the Elizabeth's salvage claim.

The American Farmer with her food cargo has been estimated as worth $4,500,000.

Some 5,000 tons of urgently needed wheat was reported safe. Temporary repairs may be made to allow the vessel to proceed to London for unloading.

Chairman William Jordan of the annual ball committee for Joyce Schirick Post, 1336, Veterans of Foreign Wars, hopes for a large attendance of members at tonight's meeting in the Moose Club on Broadway at Thomas street, to "The ball will be held some time during the week of the 20th," Mr. Jordan said, as he informed a reporter that this year's V.F.W. social in the municipal auditorium probably would be bigger and better than ever.

The popular beauty queen feature originated last year will be continued, he said, with girls from practically every local factory participating. "This year we plan to give a real crown to the queen," he informed the press, "to be donated through the courtesy of some Kingston jeweler."

Your Yesterday
You must go on and build today
On what you build yesterday.
You may want much to pull some out
To fix anew and change about,
But sure as life and death and day
You must build on from yesterday.
So build you fair, and build you strong.
And build to last a whole life long.
Prove every stone, make each line
true
That all may be but for to you.
For sure as life and death and day
Today will make your yesterday.

who cannot hope to be heard in the peace conference itself. But even the delegates, who are being heard in the general assembly, occasionally invite you out for a drink, in order to "tell you something special." It generally goes like this:

"Say, why don't you write the real story of what's happening in there?"

"What is it?"

"Well, of course, you understand I can't be quoted. You've got to leave me strictly out of this. But the plain fact is—"

The plain fact is that he wants you to say something for him that he is afraid to say for himself. His "inside" is simply special pleading, a load of dynamite that he wants planted somewhere. And he won't be around when the explosion comes.

high SS officer, but he would not acknowledge the letters.

Maj. F. Elwyn Jones of the British prosecution staff produced a letter he said Sievers had written to a Dr. Brandt saying:

"We have nearly a complete collection of skulls of all races and peoples at our disposal. Of the Jewish race, however, only a few specimens are available. The war in the east now presents us with an opportunity to overcome this deficiency. By procuring the skulls of Jewish-Bolshevik commissars, who represent the prototype of a repulsive but characteristic sub-human, we have a chance to obtain a palpable scientific document."

The plan was for the German army to turn over to field police all living Jewish-Russian commissars captured. The Jews were to be given special attention until the arrival of a "special delegate." Photographs, anthropological measurements and birth data were to be taken.

A letter dated June 21, 1943, said:

"Altogether, 115 persons were experimented on. Seventy-nine were Jews, 30 Jewesses, two were Poles and four Asiatics."

The collection of bodies was assembled at Strasbourg. On September 5, 1944, Sievers was said to have written Brandt asking for instructions because the city was in the line of the American advance.

The letter suggested the bodies could be picked clean of their flesh and thus rendered beyond identification or that the flesh parts "could be declared as having been left by the French at the time we took over the anatomical institute."

Father Divine Takes White Bride

"Peace, It's Wonderful" is the motto of her husband's cult.

The guests ate what followers described as "a small banquet"—four meat courses, chicken, fish, seven vegetables, five kinds of bread, hot biscuits, three ice cream favors and two cakes, including the wedding cake. ("Big banquets" last more than five hours with as many as 300 courses served, cult members said.)

The marriage was disclosed in The New Day, newspaper published by the Divine cult. It contained the wedding speech made by the bride and comments by Father Divine himself at a gathering at the Circle Mission Church, cult headquarters—here on July 29.

Said the bride then: "At this time I would like to publicly thank FATHER for his great Blessing and Honor of legally marrying the Lamb of GOD! It is something that I never dreamed of and I know you never dreamed of."

"FATHER dear, because I KNOW YOU ARE GOD, I declare, as I have vowed and solemnly sworn, not to bind YOU as a woman would a natural man, but I free YOU to love and bless

Highland Flagstaff, Flag And Brass Eagle Missing

Highland authorities, members of the American Legion and others would like to know the answer to the disappearance of a flag and flagstaff surmounted by a bronze eagle, which has stood near the village's honor roll, adjacent to the Highland National Bank, for the past four years.

The flagstaff with eagle and the flag have been missing since the night of July 26, according to Chaplain George P. Muller of Lloyd Post, American Legion. He said that the flag was a new one, having been changed on Memorial Day. The staff, which was inserted in an iron pipe sunk in the ground, had been snapped off at the base.

Legion officials are particularly concerned over the loss of the eagle, which was of brass and about eight inches long. The eagle formerly adorned the battle flag of the 150th Regiment, which fought under Sherman in the Battle of Atlanta and the March to the Sea. It was presented to Lloyd Post by the G.A.R. when the Post was organized in 1919.

Kingston Canning Center May Produce 30,000 Cans

All Canning Is Done in Tins at City Home Center

Method Is Superior to Glass Jar Routine; Public Is Invited to Inspect Center

After you examine the modern canning facilities at the Kingston Canning Center located at the City Home on Flatbush avenue near the 9th bypass, you wonder why more folks don't take advantage of the opportunity to do their canning in the most up-to-date fashion.

To truly appreciate just what services are offered the public at a nominal charge, one has to inspect the center—and the welcome mat is out every day, according to Raphael Klein, the supervisor.

These canning centers have nationwide ramifications it seems and the one in Kingston has been in existence since August 1945. It is sponsored by the New York State Department of Education through the local Board of Education.

The idea of canning centers originated in the midst of the depression in 1932 in the state of Georgia and spread rapidly through the south. The primary purpose of the canning center was food conservation and preservation in the days when food had to go a long way. Since then the movement has advanced northward until today there are nearly 3,000 centers in the United States. The Kingston center is one of eight in New York state. Locally, the establishment in the City Home is considered part of the adult education program of Kingston High School.

Raphael Klein, supervisor of the local project, was formerly a fruit farmer of considerable reputation before joining the Kingston High School faculty as agricultural teacher. Assisting him are Miss Margaret Schuetz and Mrs. Alice Schuetz.

The total output of the canning center is expected to approach 30,000 cans this season. This figure represents a sharp increase over the 6,000 cans of last year, although Mr. Klein points out that canning didn't start until Labor Day last year.

Mr. Klein believes that more people should learn to can food and grasp the significance of food conservation, especially in these days of mounting prices and heavy demands on our food stocks to supply the starving nations of the world.

No Experience Needed

No experience is needed to can food at the Kingston center. The staff welcomes beginners and experienced housewives alike. A congenial atmosphere prevails and many helpful hints are exchanged.

All canning is done in tins by electrically operated machines and pressure-cooked on the spot. This method is far superior to the glass jar routine since the food is sealed in tins before cooked, and the method is more fool proof than jars on which the rubber must be tightened after the cooking process.

Most of the food is sealed in No. 2 and No. 2½ tins, the kind you buy in your grocery store, but there is some call for the large size No. 10 cans by local organizations. For instance, the City Home, the Industrial Home and other groups feeding large numbers of inmates frequently use the facilities at the City Home center.

There is no limit to the number of items that can be handled. Fruits and vegetables, of course, represent the main foods and there is some call for canning of certain types of meats. But, as Mr. Klein points out, you name it and we'll can it for you.

The tins cost the canner three or four cents and there is an additional charge of two cents a can for cooking and processing. The instructions periods are free to the public. The machinery is complete in every detail—from cutting and cleaning to sealing pressure cooking and cooling the tins. There is one machine that can throw applesauce at you by the gallon. An instructor is present at all times to guide the neophyte and give hints to the most experienced. Everything is done on a completely informal basis.

Patrons From All Over

The patrons of the Kingston Canning Center aren't confined solely to the city. They come from all over the city and county. One group came from Yonkers, N. Y., to can vegetables. And it's not only women who do the canning—there are men, more than you would dream about.

The local center produced more than 400 cans of food for U.N.R.R.A. during the famine emergency drive. Some people gave food, some gave their time. Mr. Klein pointed out that U.N.R.R.A. still needs plenty of food and there is no finer contribution than a can of food.

Women from the Home Bureau did much of the work. At peak production the Canning Center can keep between 20 and 25 people busy at a profitable process. More than often that number is working at once, exchanging ideas, menus, trying something new and cooperating in every detail. Mr. Klein and his staff would like to see people who could use this instruction profitably—notably the young housewives.

The average person comes into the center with a bushel of fruits or vegetables. The center urges that groups come in pairs so as to expedite the process. Each group is assigned a number which is placed on the tins so that the products will not be erroneously taken up by someone else. These operations some times attract 50 or 60 people and everyone is welcome.

A total of 175 persons used the Canning Center to some extent during 1945, but this number will be exceeded by a wide margin in 1946, Mr. Klein predicted.

Superiority of the Can

Mr. Klein emphasizes the superiority of the tin cans. The tin is always new, keeps the color of the food better, he tells you. The finished product is cooled off more rapidly than would be possible with a glass jar after being in the pressure cooker. The tins are sealed once and for all, whereas the rubber necks of the glass jars may have to be tightened once or twice to insure airtight conditions.

For the present all canning is done by appointment with Mr. Klein or the staff. By mid-August when the preserving season is in full swing, the center hopes to keep open between 10 a. m. and 6 p. m., or between 2 p. m. until 10 p. m. The shift will be decided at a later date.

Appointments can be made by calling the Canning Center 3176-R or the Kingston High School, 1970.

The Kingston center is an interesting project anyway you look at it. And the best way to look is by hiking yourself up to the City Home for a look-see.

Things Tough in U. S., He Goes Back to Germany

Bad Nauheim, Aug. 8 (AP)—An ex-soldier who hitch-hiked his way back to Germany because he found jobs too scarce and prices too high in the United States sat in jail here today awaiting American Military Government trial on charges of illegally entering the country.

An interior picture of the Kingston Canning Center shows Mrs. Kurdt at one of the sinks while Mr. Klein tests the heat in the steamer, which is cooking applesauce. The applesauce has to reach a temperature of 190 degrees before it can be put in the cans. Miss Nancy Isaacs and mother, Mrs. M. L. Isaacs, of Yonkers fill cans of applesauce, which is one of the few articles canned at the center and can be drained out of the steamer in this manner. Mrs. Isaacs and daughter are spending a vacation in Kingston and purchased some of the famous Ulster county apples to make some applesauce at the local canning center.

Mrs. Edward T. Reynolds and Mrs. James T. O'Reilly are pictured taking 36 cans of beets out of the cooker. They are about to put them in the cooling tank in the rear. The hoist makes the task of taking the cans out of the cooker much easier for the people using the canning center.

Miss Nancy Isaacs is sealing the cans of applesauce while Mrs. Klein looks on.

Stichman Declares Housing Program Greatest in Union

State Commissioner Gives Answer to Weinfeld; Says Accuser Is Misinformed

New York, Aug. 8 (AP)—Herman T. Stichman, state housing commissioner, declared yesterday that the housing program during the last three and a half years under Gov. Thomas E. Dewey constituted "the greatest program for housing of any state in the union."

His statement was in reply to charges by Edward E. Weinfeld, housing commissioner under former Gov. Herbert Lehman, that Dewey and Stichman were seeking to make political capital out of the housing program and that the Dewey administration was taking credit for housing provided before it took office.

Weinfeld also said Monday that in the two years following Dewey's inauguration no new housing was undertaken.

Terming the charges "amazing," Stichman said Weinfeld either was "grossly misinformed" or "as a spokesman for the Democratic state committee is seeking desperately to misrepresent the facts."

Stichman added: "Up to January 1, 1943, when Governor Dewey assumed office, New York state had contracted to lend $114,414,400 to various municipal housing authorities throughout the state. Since then, and despite drastic wartime curtailments, during 1943, 1944, and 1945, the state has contracted to lend $75,303,000 to municipal housing authorities; has approved applications for loans totaling $7,767,000 to the authorities of Troy and White Plains.

"The state also has offered to lend New York city and additional $25,000,000 to meet increased construction costs, and has offered New York city an additional $50,000,000 for six new contemplated projects—or a total over-all amount of $158,070,000 from January, 1943 to date, of which $140,297,100 will be spent in New York city."

In 1859 it was discovered that petroleum could be produced from the earth by drilling.

Plans Immediate Action Against Gambling Ship

Los Angeles, Aug. 8 (AP)—Dist. Atty. Fred Howser announced last night that he would take immediate legal action, probably today, to halt operation of Tony Cornero's gambling ship Bunker Hill.

He did not disclose the nature of the action but his assistant, Charles Stratton, told newsmen: "Clerical work is in progress and complaints are being drawn. The warrants will be turned over to Sheriff Eugene W. Biscailuz. We hope to have the legal documents in readiness some time Thursday (today) afternoon."

Cornero's gaming casino, anchored about eight miles off Long Beach, drew throngs of chance takers for its opening Tuesday night and since that time water taxis have shuttled busily back and forth for the accommodation of patrons.

The Bunker Hill's operator has repeatedly declared that he is outside the state and county jurisdiction and that any attempts to close him down would constitute "piracy."

Vessels Are Scrapped

Washington, Aug. 8 (AP)—The Maritime Commission announced today it is scrapping "available war-damaged and over-age merchant vessels" to "help meet the shortage of scrap steel and other metals."

Just one blanket—no more oppressive weight of several—yet you sleep cozy, warm, undisturbed all night... regardless of weather changes!

Choose the warmth you want! Set the control at the temperature you prefer. Then get into a bed that's warm all over. Constant warmth level is maintained all night... no matter what the weather. The Simmons Electronic Blanket can't get too cool or too warm.

A wonder of convenience, too! Think of it—just one light blanket to handle when making the bed, just one blanket to store for summer, just one blanket to wash. It's a Beauty! Here's a fleecy all-wool facing (with an invisible cotton warp for long life)—as luxurious as any blanket you ever owned. And available in the "perfect" pastel shades... one for every bedroom: Blue, Cedar, Rose, Green, Peach.

Scientific-Minded, Look Here! The secret of the Simmons Electronic Blanket's unparalleled comfort-safety combination is this: Throughout the Blanket is a triple-insulated dual conductor. One conductor is a heater wire carrying Warmth Electrons. The other is a feeler wire conducting Control Electrons.

The Control Electrons keep constant control over the Warmth Electrons by checking their temperature throughout the Blanket. When desired temperature is reached, the Control Electrons signal electronic tubes in the Control and current is shut off. A slight temperature drop, unnoticeable to you, and presto—current is again turned on. In this way, temperature is safely kept at your level.

Electronically Protected! Even if accidental damage or other abnormal conditions should arise, an exclusive Simmons safety tube automatically shuts off the current. And that's why in a Simmons Electronic Blanket you're continuously protected from too much heat as well as from cold... snuggled in comfort and safety no electric blanket has ever provided before.

For your protection, be sure that the electric blanket you buy bears this mark of Underwriters' Laboratories, Inc.

Tender Asparagus Stalks

Wondering how to cook the asparagus stalks tender without overcooking the delicate tops? Use a double boiler to cook the asparagus. Tie washed, trimmed stalks together loosely in a bunch and stand them in boiling water in bottom part of double boiler. Cook stalks until they're tender. Test by piercing them with fork. Then invert the top of the double boiler over the tips and let the steam cook the tips while the boiling water cooks the stalks.

Stows Away Near Motor For Three-Hour Flight

Sydney, Aug. 8 (AP)—A 12-year-old Indonesian boy was being treated at Darwin Hospital today for multiple cuts, exposure and shock after an amazing three-hour flight from Koepang in the engine nacelle of a Dutch Dakota transport.

A Sydney Sun dispatch from Darwin said the mechanic who went to lock the plane's undercarriage last night saw the unconscious boy's body pinned around the lowering mechanism within the engine nacelle.

After regaining consciousness the boy said he came from Koepang to see Australia, but refused to give his name.

R.A.A.F. officers at Darwin were astounded that the boy, who was clad only in shirt and shorts, could have lived through the three-hour flight at 9,000 feet unprotected from cold blasts of air fanned by an airscrew a few feet away.

Equally mystifying was why the boy didn't fall out when the wheels were lowered over Darwin. He is expected to recover.

Leaflets Explain Veterans' Exemptions

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 8 (AP)—The State Tax Commission and the Division of Veterans Affairs today began distribution of leaflets explaining real property tax exemption to which veterans are entitled in the state.

The leaflets are being sent to all local assessing officials and will be distributed to veterans through the 115 local service agencies of the Veterans Affairs Division. Spencer E. Bates, tax commission president, said.

Bates warned that veterans seeking exemption on eligible property must file applications on or before local "Grievance Day," usually held by assessors in most towns on the second Tuesday of August—August 13 this year.

The exemption is limited to $5,000 on any property and does not apply to school taxes or special district assessments, Bates added.

Playhouse Staging of 'Vinegar Tree' is Cleverly Done

Hilarious Comedy Week's Fare at Woodstock as Edith King, Houston Richards Star

When you see Edith King and Houston Richards moving across the stage in any given play, you get the same impression you would if Ted Williams and Joe DiMaggio were teeing off in the same lineup. They're slightly terrific.

Miss King and Mr. Richards last night kept a Woodstock Playhouse audience howling through three acts of Paul Osborn's robust comedy, "The Vinegar Tree," and along with the entire cast were given a tremendous ovation at the conclusion of the performance. There has been nothing quite like it at the Playhouse this season.

Belly laughs just roll from Porter's clever lines. The plot is simple enough and relates a not too impossible situation, but Miss King and Mr. Richards deliver an endless succession of smart punch lines.

The hilarious comedy centers around the married life of Laura and Augustus Merrick who were brought together by fortuitous circumstances—Laura trying to forget a great love and seeking to get herself in the great task of being Augustus' wife, even if she didn't really love him. The dreams of romance never escape this flirty matron and when a house guest appears and is mistakenly identified as a former lover of Laura's things get complicated and amusing.

Robert Gill deserves an orchid for his expert direction and he milked every drop of Paul Osborn's innuendoes and double talk, all literally saturated with a sexy spice.

Stephen Elliott as Max Lawrence, the house guest who really wasn't Laura's old beau but who found Laura's daughter, Leone, very interesting, was up to his usual fine standard. Lois Clair as Winifred Lawrence, Max's wife unknown to Mr. and Mrs. Merrick or the daughter, Michael Sivy as Geoffrey Cole, Leone's sweetheart, all registered effectively.

Nancy Chase, of Woodstock, as Laura's daughter who feels that being a virgin is strictly a social handicap and who yearns to be passionate, worldly and experienced in order to please her exacting sweetheart, has a naive quality that endears her to the audience—meanwhile creating terrible complications among her, Max and his wife and young Geoffrey.

If you're looking for solid laughs and aren't too inhibited that you can cut loose with a good one now and then, we heartily recommend "The Vinegar Tree." It's superb entertainment and Edith King and Houston Richards will show you two of the finest performances you have ever seen.

YOU CAN'T BEAT MEAT

Now that meat is back again, we're all eager to plan our meals around roasts, steaks and stews. There's good nutrition and real eating enjoyment in every bite of meat. You can't beat meat when it comes to something good to eat. And, of all the meats, the most popular is beef.

Standing Ribs of Beef
Season the ribs roast and place fat side up in an open roasting pan. Do not cover; do not add water. Insert a meat thermometer so that the bulb reaches the center of the largest muscle. Put in a slow oven (300°F.) and roast. The thermometer will register 140°F. for a rare roast, 160°F. for a medium, and 170°F. for a well-done roast. Allow eighteen to twenty minutes per pound for cooking a rare roast, twenty-two to twenty-five minutes per pound for a medium, and twenty-seven to thirty minutes for a well-done roast.

Beef Steak—Broiled
Have porterhouse, sirloin or club steak cut thick, at least one inch. Set regulator to broil, so that the top surface of a one-inch steak will be two inches and the top surface of a two-inch steak three inches from the source of the heat. If this distance must be less, reduce the temperature accordingly. When one side is nicely browned, season with salt and pepper, turn, and broil the second side. Season the one inch thick, require fifteen to twenty minutes for broiling. Two-inch steaks require thirty to thirty-five minutes.

Beef Stew
2 lbs. beef stew meat
1 cup salt
1 cup pepper
2 cups boiling water
2 bay leaves
2 onion, minced
4 stalks celery, cut in 1-inch pieces
1 green pepper, diced
3 carrots, sliced
4 potatoes, quartered

Farley Declines To Be Chairman

Once Big-Time Democrat Also Refuses Offer by Fitzpatrick

New York, Aug. 8 (AP)—Efforts to have James A. Farley return to active participation in state Democratic affairs hit a snag today as the former postmaster general disclosed he had declined an invitation to be permanent chairman of the forthcoming state convention.

After refusing this post, Farley added, he also turned down a second offer from Paul E. Fitzpatrick, state Democratic chairman, that he sit with the Democratic leaders on the eve of the convention to be held in Albany on September 3 and 4.

Ordinarily the chairman-ship also means designation as the keynote speaker of the convention.

The World Today

By GLENN RABB
A.P. Foreign News Analyst

China is giving evidence of disappointment over the fruits of her bargain with Soviet Russia, embodied in the treaty signed the day of Japan's surrender nearly a year ago. She has acted to block the application of Outer Mongolia, a Soviet satellite, for membership in the United Nations.

China's recognition of the quarter-century old fact that Outer Mongolia had shaken off the ties that had bound her lightly to the Chinese state was one element of the bargain. In return China received Moscow's pledge of aid to be given solely through the National government then at Chungking—to the exclusion of the Chinese Communists—and Russian Recognition of Chinese sovereignty in Manchuria.

From neither of these Russian undertakings has China benefited to any appreciable extent. The pledge to favor the National government as against the Communists has been meaningless; there is no conclusive evidence that the Communists have received any considerable active Russian support, but neither has Moscow aided Chiang Kai-Shek's regime. The Communists remain a powerful threat to end Chiang's two decades of rule; the country is torn by strife which threatens to become full scale civil war despite the efforts of the United States, through General George C. Marshall and Ambassador J. Leighton Stuart, to bring peace and unity.

As for Manchuria, the grip of the Communists on the greater part of that once richly developed region has made a travesty of recognition of Chinese sovereignty. The Chinese Nationalists have had little good of the fine ports, railways and industries which they hoped to recover when Japan was smashed. The Russians, withdrawing, left little of the great munitions and heavy industry plants the Japanese had built to feed their war machine. Reparations and spoils of war, the Russians said.

This is the background of the Chinese demand in the membership committee of the United Nations Security Council that the Mongolian application be shelved for at least a year. Russia and Poland had strongly supported the application. The committee agreed to suspend further action until an accredited envoy from Mongolia could be heard. The Chinese pointed out that the Mongolian people's republic—to give it its official name—had no diplomatic relations with any power except the Soviet Union. "She gives no opportunity for the members of the United Nations to know her more intimately," was the Chinese member's polite oriental phrasing of his objection.

The fact is that Outer Mongolia has been firmly in the Russian orbit since 1924, has a government patterned on the Russian C. Marshall and Ambassador J. Leighton Stuart, to bring peace with 80,000 men at Russia's heels in the last week of fighting. The China-Russia Treaty of 1945 provided that China would recognize Mongolian independence if a plebiscite showed the Mongolian people desired it. The plebiscite was held last October; the result, as announced in Moscow, was: For independence, 483,291; against, zero.

Disputes May Deepen

The preliminary divisions in the ranks of the United Nations over new memberships indicate that these disputes are likely to deepen the cleavage between Russian and the western powers. There seems likelihood of strong objection to at least four of the eight applicants. Admission is by a two-thirds vote of the General Assembly, but before an application gets to the parent body it must pass the Security Council. And since membership is considered a matter of substance the veto right of the five big powers in the council makes it possible for any one of them to keep any applicant in outer darkness. China can, if she remains opposed, bar the door to Outer Mongolia. Britain has indicated that she cares little for another Russian satellite, Albania, and Greece's fight against Albanian entry bids fair to get big power support. The Russian press has been sniping at Trans-Jordan, newly freed from her ties to Britain, and France has little friendship at the moment for Siam, with whom she is having a bitter border dispute over Indo-China.

The other applicants are Portugal, Iceland, Ireland and Afghanistan, and no opposition to them has appeared.

O.P.A. Removes
Some Price Checks*Ceilings Advance on Peas, Corn, Tomatoes Canned

Washington, Aug. 8 (AP)—O.P.A. removed price controls on fresh peas, corn and tomatoes today as ceilings went up one to two cents on canned peas, corn, tomatoes and tomato products.

Most sour cherries are sold for processing, O.P.A. said. Products made from them remain under ceilings.

The vegetable price increases announced by O.P.A. yesterday resulted from elimination of subsidy payments. These amounted to $39,000,000 during the fiscal year 1946.

The off setting price boosts are: two cents on No. 2 cans of peas and tomatoes, one cent on corn and tomato juice and one cent on 12-ounce packages of frozen corn and peas.

Also up one cent are 14-ounce containers of catsup and six-ounce cans of tomato paste.

Aside from the food actions, O.P.A. removed price controls on charges for window washing and for the cleaning of building exteriors and floors.

The agency also discontinued ceilings on charges for water softening and for contract janitorial service.

Laundering Pillow Cases

If feather particles and lint cling to other wet articles when you are washing pillow cases, it is best to turn pillow cases inside out before laundering and shake well to remove excess stuff.

Has Judge's Shirts, Gets Court Break

Philadelphia, Aug. 8 (AP)—The shirt shortage finally reached a federal courtroom—and the defendant got the break.

Magistrate John C. Morlock was sitting in the absence of a U. S. Commissioner yesterday when Mock Yong Fong, 35, a laundryman, was arraigned on a charge of possessing opium.

Assistant U. S. Attorney Thomas J. Curtin recommended Mock be held in $2,000 bail for the federal grand jury.

Morlock looked at the defendant. "Say," he said, "this man's my laundryman—my shirts are in his place now. . . I wonder how I can get them out?"

Mock's attorney said his client couldn't raise $2,000, and if you hold him in that bail you won't get your shirts.

"Can he raise $1,000?" the magistrate asked.

"Yes, I think he can."

"Okay — $1,000," Morlock said. "I need those shirts."

Charles Wells of 68 Newkirk avenue, who was burned about the hands and overcome while fighting a blaze at 66 Newkirk avenue yesterday, was reported in fair condition at the Kingston Hospital today.

Mr. Wells became exhausted after battling a blaze in a bedroom on the first floor of the residence at 66 Newkirk avenue owned by George Avery. The fire in the clothes bedding was discovered by Mr. Avery's daughter, Gertrude Hamilton, who summoned Mr. Wells from next door.

Blankets and bedding were damaged and slight damage and slight damage to the building also was reported. Mr. Wells was taken to the Kingston Hospital in Conner's ambulance after he collapsed.

Officer Soper and Camp investigated for the police. Cornell Hose and a truck from the central fire station responded for the fire department.

May Halt All Traffic

New York, Aug. 8 (AP)—The American Communications Association (C.I.O.) said today it was contemplating a general shutdown on all incoming press traffic from outside the United States in sympathy with 300 striking employees of Press Wireless, Inc. Laurence Kammet, A.C.A. publicity director, said R.C.A. Communications, Inc., MacKay Radio and Telegraph Company, Inc., Commercial Cable Company and Western Union's cable department would be affected by such a move. The A.C.A. claims 2,000 members.

Heller said the charges against the tenant E. A. Peterson, were insufficient cause for eviction and added:

If we can evict a man for letting his hair grow too long we can of course evict him for cutting it too short. That would lead to all sorts of complications.

Caraway Trial Set For September 9

Negro Chauffeur Will Face Nassau Jury: Fielding Concludes Hearing

Mineola, N. Y., Aug. 8 (P)—Ward Beecher Caraway, 23-year-old Negro chauffeur charged with murder in the slaying of Mrs. Marjory Church Logan July 24 will be tried by a Nassau county jury September 9. District Attorney James N. Gehrig said yesterday.

The county department of jurors began drawing an extra large panel for the trial. A spokesman said that because of wide publicity given the case it might be difficult to select a jury free from bias.

Caraway still has not obtained counsel.

The youth, arrested after Mrs. Logan and her daughter Marjory Jeanne, were shot by an armed intruder, had been identified by the daughter as her assailant.

The district attorney said Caraway made a statement admitting the crime during questioning after his arrest at the nearby home of Joseph M. Rose where he had worked only a few weeks.

In New York city, License Commissioner Benjamin Fielding concluded a hearing against the H. and M. Modern Employment Agency which faces possible revocation of its license due to failure to make diligent inquiry into Caraway's background before he allegedly was recommended to the Rosenbergs.

Fielding reserved decision in the case.
He made public a telegram he received from the Federal Bureau of Investigation stating that Caraway had been arrested by Durham, N. C., police October 31, 1944 on two charges of larceny, turned over to military authorities and sentenced to one year at the rehabilitation center at Fort Jackson, S. C.

Frank N. Littlejohn said two warrants had been issued charging Caraway with armed robbery. He said two Charlotte warrants do not show him through photographs as the prowler who three times robbed them last June.

Littlejohn said arraigned Caraway was a record-holder, discharged after a 90-day martial.

Sugar Ration Shortage Has Affected Bees

Harrisburg, Pa., Aug. 8.—The Pennsylvania shortage of sugar rations has even affected the honey bees.

Instead of supplying sweets, the honey bees this year had to dip into low sugar stocks to keep alive themselves, the State Department of Agriculture disclosed today following a mid-summer survey. A cool, late spring and wet weather which kept the bees from getting outside to collect nectar—were blamed.

Beekeepers explained that winter food supplies in the hives were thus depleted, and that owners had to fall back on O.P.A. for special rations to feed the bees sugar water. Many could not get sufficient sugar in time and entire colonies of bees were wiped out.

Larger Pine Knoll Camp Building Is Planned

The entrance to Pine Knoll and St. George's camps will be graded, and the road widened.

Garments of brushed rayon will remain soft and fluffy a long time if washed carefully by hand, not crowded into a washer.

CLERGYMAN APPROVES

The following letter is from a clergyman: "I notice your answer to the complaint of someone who criticized occupants of end seats in church pews who are unwilling to give up these seats to late-comers. You told this person that the owner of the pew has a right to that seat and that the head of a family who comes early and takes this end seat is not obliged to give it up to late-comers. Naturally, as you said, one should readily admit late-comers to the pew if there is room left in it. This answer was so reasonable, as to deserve commendation. However, I know that some of these unreasonable late-comers will continue, even as they have always done, to demand that end seats be vacated for them. I believe, therefore, that your answer should be repeated at intervals. When people are seated promiscuously at a table, each one taking whatever seat he prefers, it would be the height of impropriety for someone then to ask him to give it up. When a queue is formed in a store or theatre, it certainly is not the proper thing to request someone to give up his place to a late-comer."

There is, of course, no answer to this further than thanking the clergyman for his kind letter of approval.

If Wedding Dress Still Fits

Dear Mrs. Post: What is your opinion of my wearing my wedding dress and veil at our 25th wedding anniversary celebration? My children want me to wear the whole costume and I think it would be unsuitable now, but I want to please them if possible.

Answer: If you are so fortunate as to find the dress still fits, I think it would be a perfect idea! You could wear the veil, too, if the party includes none but the family and oldest friends who naturally would be much interested in seeing your complete costume.

Lace Tablecloths

Dear Mrs. Post: Is a lace tablecloth merely for ornament or may it be eaten on?

Answer: It may be eaten on, of course. No kind of white tablecloth is a proper table cover for ornament—meaning between meals.

Frank Aldrich Is New Member of FSA Committee

The appointment of Clifford M. Buck, Salt Point, Dutchess county; Ulisses G. Van Hoesen, Athens, Greene Co., and Frank Aldrich, Lake Katrine, Ulster county, as new members of the Farm Security administration committees for those counties, is announced by County Supervisor F. A. Norman.

Appointed by State F.S.A. Director Space, the new members took office July 1, for three year terms. Other members include Myron Boice and Benjamin Van Wagenen, Kingston.

The committees will carry heavy responsibilities in the re-establishment of veterans on farms in these three counties. Supervisor Norman said, since they will play prominent parts in three separate programs set up to aid returning servicemen. A new $25,000,000 program of farm ownership loans to experienced farmer-veterans will be a major part of F.S.A.'s aid to veterans during the next twelve months.

The new appointees replace Stanley H. Benham, Charles P. Fred-nburgh and Vernon A. Barnhart on the county committees.

May Have Telephone Service Restored Now

Washington, Aug. 8 (AP)—If you move now, or have moved recently, you may be able to have your telephone service restored under a revision of wartime telephone priorities announced yesterday by the Civilian Production Administration.

Both residential and business telephone subscribers who move within the same central telephone office area are granted first preference under the amended order. Previously they had to await their turn as new subscribers. Businesses formerly received a second priority and residents had a sixth.

C.P.A. said the order is retroactive and will aid 35,000 subscribers immediately and an other each month thereafter. It defined a central office area as one within which the same switchboards are used. There are many central areas in most metropolitan cities usually identified by name.

'Imp' rialism' Is Hit

Moscow, Aug. 8 (AP)—Trud, trade union organ, commenting on the forthcoming Congressional elections in the United States, said today that "American imperialism is trying to gain world rule." "American monopoly of capital," the article continued, "is trying to make satellites out of the countries of Latin America, Europe and Asia and is not even stopping at fanning civil war in China to achieve its ends."

U. S. Takes Part In 'Soup' Picture

Conciliation Is Attempted to Halt Strike in Tomato Area

Camden, N. J., Aug. 8 (AP)—The Federal Government stepped into the Campbell Soup Company strike picture today in an effort to avert a walkout of 8,000 C.I.O. workers Monday that might result in spoilage of a $4,900,000 crop in Pennsylvania and

New Jersey.

Peter J. Manno of the U. S. Conciliation Service will appear at a hastily-called conference with Campbell officials and representatives of Local 80, Food, Tobacco and Agricultural Workers (C.I.O.) to try to settle a dispute involving union demands for a closed shop and preferential hiring in all Campbell plants.

The strike, if it goes on as scheduled, threatens a third of the Pennsylvania-New Jersey tomato crop—140,000 tons.

Lester Jones of Medford, N. J., President of the New Jersey-Pennsylvania Tomato Growers Cooperative Association, said the 3,000 tomato growers in the area insist the dispute be settled by arbitration.

Boxing Fans Expected En Masse at Stadium for Card Tonight; Gov. Clintons Set for Championship Game Here Sunday Evening

Jimmy Braddock Is Guest Referee For B'nai B'rith

Brilliant Array of Boys Scheduled to Box at Uptown Ballpark; First Bout 9 P.M.

Old Sol broke out of the east early this morning and spread his rays over Kingston, just as the weather man said he would, and took all the worry off B'nai B'rith boxing committee concerning tonight's open air boxing show, at municipal stadium, featuring James J. Braddock, former world's heavyweight champion, as guest referee on an all-star card.

"If this keeps up," said Dr. Saul Goldfarb, as he bounced off the mattress at 10 a. m., "Braddock will be busy meeting a lot of people and signing autographs at the ball park tonight." Starting time is 9 o'clock.

He heaved at the report of Dr. Murray Greene that the reserved seat sale was heavy for the festive show offering the names of the best amateur talent around New England, New York city and along the Hudson valley.

Bill Singer, one of the directors of bouts, thinks Tony Burrone will box his way into the favorite spot with fans tonight. The Schenectady boy, one of the best welterweights, if not the best, in the Adirondack Division of the A.A.U. is matched with New York's Clarence Alleyne, national Golden Gloves champion in the main five rounder.

"Alleyne proved he was a top notch scrapper in his bouts with Matt Baransky and Jimmy Marlo," Singer remarked. "But he'll have a tough assignment against Burrone, who holds decisions over Marlo and Columbus Lowman, classy Buffalo battler."

Supporting bouts, between fighters who are noted for real action campaigning, are:

Five Rounders

Phil Mayes, 136, Boston vs. Joe Mario, former Diamond Belt champion, Albany.

Lazzeri, Former Yankee Player Dies on Coast

Body of Popular Major League Star Found in San Francisco Home by Wife

San Francisco, Calif., Aug. 8 (AP)—"Poosh-em-up!" Tony Lazzeri, former New York Yankee ball player and one of the murderers' row of hitters with Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig, is dead at 42.

The body of the popular big league star, who started baseball as a youngster in San Francisco's sand lots and played in seven World Series, six with the Yankees and one with the Cubs during the 1930's, was found in his suburban home yesterday by his wife, Maye, and a brother-in-law, Louie Servente, when they returned from a vacation.

Investigating physicians said Lazzeri died either of a heart attack or as the result of a fall. The body was found slumped at the foot of a staircase near the entrance of the home. He had been dead an estimated 36 hours when found at 4 p. m., (P.S.T.) yesterday.

V.A. Says 'Pros' Are Ineligible for Training Benefits

Providence, R. I., Aug. 8 (AP)—The regional Veterans Administration has ruled that professional baseball players are ineligible for on-the-job training benefits under the G.I. Bill of Rights.

Eight members of the Pawtucket team of the Class B New England League were the first to feel the effects of the ruling. The players, all World War 2 vets, had been training two months under a program designed to develop major league players.

Harold P. Mara, Providence vocational rehabilitation chief of the Veterans Administration, said payments to them would stop today. He reported that the Boston V.A. office ruled professional players were employees and not trainees.

'Ringer' Case Results In Barring of Two Men

Bel Air, Md., Aug. 8 (AP)—Because "human beings" have characteristics like human beings, two Wilmington, Del., horsemen awaited grand jury action in Maryland in a "ringer" case today and they have been barred from all tracks in West Virginia.

The owners—Paul E. Middleton and William F. Mink—were placed under bond for action by the September Harford county grand jury by Magistrate Paul Cronin on charges of conspiracy to defraud and of attempting to defraud by substituting the horse Don't Delay for All Flo at the Bel Air track July 24.

Meanwhile, the West Virginia Racing Association charged Don't Delay ran at Charles Town four times under the name of All Flo this summer and ordered Middleton and Mink barred from all tracks in that state.

Vines Burns 'Em Up On Professional Circuit

Winnipeg, Aug. 8 (AP)—You can never harm your game by practice and this theory, carried over from the days when he was one of the world's outstanding tennis players, today has put Ellsworth Vines on the spot as the hottest golfer on the professional tournament circuit at present.

The bespectacled 35-year-old Chicago pro, who switched to golf as a livelihood some 10 years ago, entered the second round of the $10,000 Canadian Professional Golfers' Association open tournament by using a spectacular seven-under-par 65 in the first 18 holes yesterday.

That record-equalling round for the 6,504-yard layout at the Nantux Country Club gave the former tennis champion a four-stroke lead over four others, including a Canadian amateur and professional, in a field of more than 80 from Canada and the United States.

SCOREBOARD

By JOE REICHLER (Associated Press Sports Writer)

"Old man injury" is in his most merciless mood in many a moon today as one by one, key players of Major League baseball teams join already overcrowded hospital lists.

Heading the list of currently ailing non-combatants are such topnotch performers as Bob Feller, Cleveland Indians; Ted Williams, Boston Red Sox; Johnny Mize and Buddy Kerr, New York Giants; Johnny Berardino, St. Louis Browns; Pete Reiser and Harry LaVogetto, Brooklyn Dodgers; Stan Hack, Chicago Cubs and Schoolboy Rowe, of the Phillies.

Causes No Alarm
The absence of Williams, Pesky and Higgins is causing no great alarm on the hub from as the American League leading Red Sox have too commanding a lead with the season two-thirds gone. With the New York Yankees' 4-3 defeat by the Senators in Washington last night, the idle Sox increased their margin over their nearest rivals to 13 full games.

Besides, Williams, who sat out the last two Red Sox contests with a run-of-the-mine fever and Pesky, sidelined by a sprained ankle, are both expected back in the lineup within a day or two. Higgins, out with sprained ligament in his leg, will not be ready for another week, at least.

Dodger Lead Trimmed
It is an entirely different story with the Dodgers whose National League lead was trimmed to a mere game and a half last night when the challenging St. Louis Cardinals overpowered the last place Pirates 8-1 at Pittsburgh.

Two of their regulars, outfielder Peter Reiser and third baseman Harry LaVogetto are out of action with head and leg injuries, respectively while second baseman Eddie Stanky, bothered by a foot ailment, is playing on nerve alone. The recalcitrant players are expected back in action soon but it remains to be seen whether their layoff has diminished batting eye.

The Indians fell three and a half games behind the fourth place Senators when the White Sox overcame a 3-0 deficit to nose out the tribe 4-3 in Chicago.

Giants Eye Fourth
Anxious out of their game with the Dodgers yesterday, the sixth place Giants are only three and a half games away from the fourth place Boston Braves who were washed out of the twin bill with the Philadelphia Phillies.

The St. Louis Browns, despite the absence of second baseman Berardino, their leading hitter, edged out the Detroit Tigers 3-2 under the Sportsman's Park lights. Rain washed out the scheduled Red Sox-A's double header, as well as the Dodgers-Giants contest and the twin bill between the Braves and Phillies.

Minor League Scores
Eastern League
Albany 8, Wilkes-Barre 1 (1st).
Wilkes-Barre 12, Albany 8 (2d).

Other games postponed.

Pennsylvania Has Ordered Election
Baseball Guild Will Get Collective Bargaining Test for Pirates

Harrisburg, Pa., Aug. 8 (AP)—Robert Murphy and his controversial American Baseball Guild took on added stature today in a quest to unionize baseball, bulkheaded by a Pennsylvania labor relations board order for a collective bargaining election among team members of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The precedent-setting decision—its first of its kind in organized baseball—fixed August 20 for the date of the election at Pittsburgh.

Thirty-one Buccos are eligible for the election, the board ruled here yesterday. Murphy has said he already holds guild membership cards for 26 of them.

Spokesmen for the Pirate management "set aside" comment on the order, pointing out a new owner is expected to take over the club Saturday and any "opinion" should come from him.

Earlier, the National Labor Relations Board declined jurisdiction and Murphy attempted to call a strike among the Pirates just before a night game in Pittsburgh. A last-minute talk by President Bill Benswanger induced the Buccos to call off the walkout.

Wing Sounds
Many chessplayers attract their mates by sounds produced with the wings, and a few species use the winged sound to lure as fiddle bows, scraping them over the edges of their wings.

Events Are Listed
The following events have been included on the program:
Boys 12 and under:
1—Wheel barrow race (25 yards); 2—Crab race (25 yards); 3—Three-legged race (25 yards); 4—50-yard dash; 5—Running broad jump; 6—Football throw for distance.

Chestertown, Victory Song, Deanna Are Leading Choices For Today's 21st Hambletonian

Winner's Prize Will Be $28,047; Berry Is Likely Driver of Chestertown

By SID FEDER
Goshen, N. Y., Aug. 8 (AP)—The farmer up the road from Bill Cane's Good Time track figures as how "it ain't good weather and it ain't good Hambletonian weather," but in spite of his gloomy forecast, the 21st edition of trotting world series was expected to get to the post today.

The weather man held out some hope that the storm which forced postponement of the corn-tassel classic from yesterday's original date would veer overnight and permit the 11 three-year-old step-ers to get on their way in the chase after the $51,845 pot of gold on schedule at 3 p. m. E.D.T. today.

This was post-time for the first of the two or more one-mile heats, and the 25,000 or so fans expected to bulge Cane's kite-shaped plant at the beams figured it's about time. Especially impatient were the hundreds of them already on hand and packing not only every corner of east-going Goshen, but Newburgh, 22 miles away, and Middletown, eight miles off, as well.

More hundreds had come up yesterday by car before learning it was "rain-no game," and they figured it might become monotonous if the weather made them do it again today.

Horsemen, Too, Are Rooting
As a matter of fact, the horsemen, too, are rooting to get the thing over with. Their snappy step-ers are all trained tighter than the subway rush hour, and any extended layoff might make them stale off. This, of course, wasn't expected to have any effect after only a 24-hour delay, and it was still the three western horses—Chestertown, Victory Song and

Downer, Ostrom Expected to Play With Newburgh

Concert to Decide Winner of Mid-Hudson League; Charlie Neff Slated to Pitch

Area baseball fans are in for a big week-end of the diamond sport providing the questionable weatherman gives his blessings. Saturday night it's the weekly Recreation night attraction which will pit the local semi-pro club against the famous Puerto Rican Stars, Sunday evening under the stadium arc lights the championship game of the Mid-Hudson Baseball League is slated when the Gov. Clinton Market team engages the strong Newburgh Grandstand Tavern team. Both tilts are scheduled to get under way at 9 o'clock sharp.

Interest is reported high for the Sabbath evening clash which will bring the undefeated charges of Manager Tommy Maines against the strong Newburgh club which is at present in second place in the Mid-Hudson League standings. The winner of Sunday's encounter will be the champion of that circuit. Tickets for this game have been on sale for a number of weeks now and reports have it that a good crowd will be in the stands for this vital meeting.

Neff May Twirl
Charlie Neff, the speedballer from Stone Ridge, who has been the main meat ticket for the Clintons so far in the league, is expected to get the starting assignment to face Newburgh Sunday. Neff has hurled the majority of the games for the local aggregation this summer and has turned in a remarkable mound record. Neff has run up a string of 74 strikeouts so far in five games and has given up eight hits and four runs in those five tilts. Manager Maines also cal. call on Bill Kaufman of Saugerties, Artie Barnes, Paul Misove or Earl Slight.

The probable starter for Newburgh is Jack McCormick, high-rated thrower who is the property of the New York Yankees. McCormick has pitched great ball in the Clinton locals are in for a tough night.

Ostrom, Downer Coming
Local fans who make it their aim to be in the stadium Sunday will see two of their old favorites in action who will be wearing the livery of Newburgh. Ernie Downer and Billy Ostrom are on the Tavern roster and both are expected to see action. Downer is no stranger to local fandom while Ostrom is another customer who is well remembered for his former duties with the Reds and for his present day chores with the club. Downer is presently batting at a hefty .462 clip for Newburgh.

Another possible starter for Newburgh is young Bob Hansen, who recently spent 10 days with the Brooklyn Dodgers at Ebbets Field where he served as a batting practice pitcher. Hansen hurled Central Valley High School to the Orange County Village High School championship this past spring. His no-hit-run game against Tuxedo in the final game clinched the bunting.

Hansen's overall record for the 1946 spring season with Central Valley was eight victories in nine starts. He struck out 134 batters in those nine tilts and gave up only 14 hits. Hansen issued 13 and had 11 runs scored against him. The young newsmen hurled another no-hitter in addition to the Tuxedo game and tossed a one-hitter against Newburgh Free Academy.

Havens on Squad
Others on the Newburgh roster include Tony Donato, Ralph Petrillo, Harvard University football, baseball and basketball star; Jack Bedosky, Len Cavicchi, Jimmy Altapodi, Nick Bucci, Harry Moresco, Ed Leahy, Sonny Peko, Howie Havens, Sonny Santoline, Andy Mazzerio and Walt Manciewicz.

Manager Maines is confident that his club can defeat Newburgh in recent games. The young manager said today "and with Neff in tip-top shape we'll be in there from start to finish."

The Gov. Clintons are expected to open with their regular lineup consisting of Jack "Daisy" Schatzel, Eddie Minasian, Jimmy Seeto or Charlie Bock and Andy Celuch in the infield. Jimmy Ashdown, Manager Maines and V. Tiano are slated to start in the outfield. Joe Benjamin or George Zadany will start behind the plate.

Durocher Selects Kunze to Pitch

Brooklyn Against World Series Continues

Brooklyn, Aug. 8 (AP)—Manager Leo Durocher of the Brooklyn Dodgers has selected Bob Kunze to pitch against the New York Yankees in the first game of the World Series.

Kunze, a 6-foot righthander who overcame infantile paralysis to become an athlete, as his starting pitcher for tonight's second baseball game of the "Brooklyn against the World" amateur three-game series.

In an effort to even up for last night's 4-2 setback, Manager George Sisler of the "World Stars" picked 17-year-old Vernon Frantz of Wichita, Kans.

The "World" nine could draw some consolation from the fact that lefty Al BeEvoy, who struck out 13 men in a five-hit effort last night, would not have to be faced again.

The crowd was held to 5,000 by threatening weather.

Owen Would Talk With Happy, but He'll Have to Wait

Former Dodger Says 'Mex' Pasquels Broke His Contract in Three Instances

Houston, Tex., Aug. 8 (AP)—Mickey Owen, who quit organized baseball to join the Mexican circuit only to reappear this week announcing his disgust with Mexican baseball, ball parks and food, was en route to Cincinnati today to present his case before A. B. (Happy) Chandler, baseball's high commissioner.

Scheduled to arrive there at 5:45 p. m. today, Owen may have time to think things over thoroughly before he and Chandler meet behind closed doors to consider the ex-Brooklyn's catcher's status.

A spokesman at Chandler's office late yesterday said the commissioner had left town for the week-end, probably to remain at his Versailles, Ky., home until Monday.

Owen and his wife were scheduled to arrive in St. Louis, via Missouri-Pacific train, early this morning and leave for Cincinnati shortly thereafter on the Baltimore and Ohio.

Between trains here yesterday, Owen said he had not discussed his problems with Chandler or Branch Rickey, president of the Dodgers.

"I don't have an appointment with Chandler but I'm going to try to talk to him," he said, adding that "the way I figure it I never bolted American baseball because I was never reinstated after I left the service."

As to bolting the Mexican League, Owen said he left without discussing his departure with Jorge Pasquel or his brothers who dominate the league, Owen said, however, that he did not break the contract he signed four months ago but that the Mexican officials had broken it three different ways.

He said he was signed to catch and manage for the Torreon Club but that "they didn't let me be manager, then transferred me to the Vera Cruz Club and finally put me on first base where I had never played before."

Meanwhile, in New York, Bernardo Pasquel, vice president of the Mexican loop, said that Owen "is a nice fellow" but that "he owes me $26,000 cash."

City League Stars Aren't Ready for Recreation Game

President Smith Claims Next Wednesday Too Early; Club Needs More Practice

Although next Wednesday, August 14, has been mentioned as the possible date for the game between the Kingston Recreation and a picked team of City League All Stars, there seems to be very little chance that the long-awaited contest will be played, Warren Smith, president of the circuit, told The Freeman sports department this morning.

"Ad Jones, on behalf of the Recreation committee, proposed the Wednesday date last Saturday night," Smith declared this morning, "but as far as I can see it is far too early to stage the game." The City League prexy went on to add that he has no desire to field his All Star club until it has had a chance to play together a couple of times.

Smith asserted that he saw no way possible to have the game played before Wednesday, August 28, unless the Rec club still has an open date Saturday, August 24. "We're anxious to play the Recreations," the president added, "but we don't intend to jump into the thing without preparation."

City Loop Pilots Will Meet Friday At Smith's Offices

Managers May Be Asked About Rec-City League All Star Contest; Starts 8 P.M.

An important meeting of all team managers of the City Baseball League will be held at the office of the Smith Mail Advertising Service, 36 North Front street, Friday evening at 8 o'clock. President Warren Smith urges all to be on hand as matters of vital importance will be discussed.

Although the topics for tomorrow's meeting have not been reported in any official medium, the loop managers may be asked to give their feelings on the proposed Kingston Recreation vs. City League All Star game which has been mentioned of late. It was reported earlier this week that President Smith had sent out letters in support of such a contest after hearing that the Recreation ball club was interested to arrange a tilt.

Win Open Bridge Tourney

New York, Aug. 8 (AP)—Waldemar K. Von Zedtwitz and A. M. Barnes of New York, and Mrs. E. J. Seligman of New York and Mrs. Sally Young of Philadelphia today won the men's and women's pair championship of the American Contract Bridge League's open tournament. Von Zedtwitz and Barnes scored 740 points to 699½ made by the runners-up, Frank Weisbach and Lewis A. Denard, of Cincinnati. In third place were Bertram Lebar, Jr., New Rochelle, N. Y., and Sam Katz of Millburn, N. J.

Yamamoto Objects When Penalty Is Mentioned

Tokyo, Aug. 8 (AP)—The controversy over the 1937 sinking of the United States Gunboat Panay by Japanese planes during the siege of Nanking was reopened today despite protests of defense counsel for Hideki Tojo and 26 other accused war criminals.

"This incident was settled between the two governments and I do not believe it proper to reopen it," objected George Yamamoto of New York city, defense attorney.

The prosecution at the war crimes trial today introduced evidence to the effect that orders had been received from higher up to sink all vessels bound for Nanking "without regard to nationality."

Ostrom Declares He'll Pitch Against Puerto Rican Stars

Local Club Will Rotate Poughkeepsie Hurler and Fitzgerald in Future Games

Billy Ostrom, the left-handed pitching ace of the Kingston Recreation, will pitch for the local club Saturday night at the municipal stadium. Ad Jones told a Freeman sports writer this morning, "I talked with Billy over the phone this morning." Ad said, "and he definitely assured me that he would be here to pitch for us against the famous Puerto Rican Stars."

This latest chapter in the Ostrom case followed a story in the Poughkeepsie New Yorker yesterday that the loose southpaw had notified the paper of his intention to quit the Kingston team. The Bridge City publication quoted Ostrom: "I'm through up there because I am not satisfied with the way the team is run."

Will Rotate Hurlers
According to Jones, who is one of the key figures on the Recreation committee, Billy Ostrom and

Dick Fitzgerald will be rotated in dead-end. Fitzgerald has pitched matter all straightened out." Ad the future contests, Ostrom's last and won the last two games asserted today, "and as long as we mound performance was in the against the New York Firemen continue to rotate both Billy and Albany Senator game when he and the Anna club of Long Island, Dick we shouldn't have any held the minor leaguers to a 2-2. "I'm pretty sure we have this trouble."

Brooklyn Driver Fined On Two Traffic Charges

Batholomeo Giovento of Brooklyn was arrested Wednesday following a crash between a dump truck which he was operating and a passenger car on Route 208 a half mile east of Wallkill. Giovento was charged with reckless driving and paid a fine of $25 on a plea of guilty before Justice of the Peace Seth Lippincott of Wallkill and on a second charge of operating an unregistered vehicle he paid a $10 fine.

State Trooper O'Connor of the Highland barracks, who investigated the accident, stated that the driver of the truck had pulled out across the double white line to pass another car going in a parallel direction and struck the Packard sedan operated by Charles Van De Weghe of 363 Johnston avenue, Teaneck, N. J., which was traveling east. The accident happened about 1 o'clock. Trooper O'Connor placed the driver of the truck under arrest on the two charges and before Justice Lippincott pleas of guilty were entered. The fines were paid.

Police Check Tale Told by Girl; Her Escort Found Dead

Savannah, Ga., Aug. 8 (AP)—A 17-year-old former theatre usherette was detained by police today while she related her story of the rape which she said had been committed by a Negro who earlier, she said, had killed her 22-year-old male companion.

Solicitor General Andrew J. Ryan, Jr., said a physician had examined the girl, Betty Deloach, and stated her story of the rape was "impossible." There were no marks on her body, he said. Ryan said the physician reported that no charges had been filed in the case.

The body of the man, Anthony Elison, a city fireman recently released from the navy, was found in an automobile on a lonely road near here yesterday.

A shot had been fired into the shoulder from the rear, Ryan said, and there was no sign of the automobile and no blood except on the rear floor of the car under the body.

Ryan said the girl stuck to the story she first recounted to police yesterday. At that time she told the police two Negroes approached the car in which she and her companion were seated about 11 o'clock and one of them forced Elison to walk down the road while the other held her in the car.

She said there was a shot and the Negro returned to the car. Both then dragged her to the side of the road and raped her twice each, she reported. In the interim one returned to the car and she said she heard another shot.

After the Negroes left, she sat in the car until daylight when she phoned police, she said.

Ryan said the girl, after being told of police finding, said she "imagined" the Negroes had put the body in the car after the shooting.

Large Gains From Spraying Cattle With DDT Solution

Claim That Oklahoma and Kansas Cattle Will Gain Millions of Extra Pounds

Almost unbelievable beneficial results following the spraying of cattle with a D.D.T. solution are reported by Bliss Isely in an article which appeared in the Wall Street Journal of August 6.

"Thanks to a D.D.T. fly control program," he writes, "at least 120 million extra pounds of beef will be hung on the frames of four million cow critters in Kansas and Oklahoma this grazing season."

The statement is quoted that in these two states more cattle are enjoying D.D.T. fly protection than in all the rest of the nation.

D.D.T.-protected herds in Kansas last year, according to reports from Kansas State College, gained 32 per cent more weight than animals not treated. The fly-control program is credited, also, with adding millions of pounds of butter and gallons of milk to the nation's supply, improving the quality of leather and making for much more contented cattle.

However, little more than half the cattle in these two states are being treated this year, largely for lack of power spraying machines, it is declared. Quoting various experts and producers, Mr. Isely cites the following examples of the value of the D.D.T. program:

In a test of 15 cows in one herd milk production rose from 50 gallons a day to 60 gallons, after one treatment.

Studies were made in 20 Kansas counties last year, one part of a herd in each county being sprayed with D.D.T., while the rest of the herd, just across the fence, on identical pastures, was left untreated. The herds were weighed in May and again in October. The treated herds gained an average of 38 pounds an animal, or 32 per cent overall. The least gain was 30 pounds per animal over the unsprayed cattle; biggest gain was 70 pounds per animal.

The value of the leather made from hides of treated cattle is said to be improved over that from untreated. Flies, it is stated, light on portions of the animal that cannot be reached by the cow's tail. They pierce the hides and suck the blood, not only driving the animal into a frenzy of torment, but impairing the value of the hide for leather.

In spraying the animals, the backs, bellies and folds of the skin are thoroughly wet. It is declared that applied in quantities of one part D.D.T. to 399 parts of water the solution has no toxic effect on livestock.
